

CALL FOR PAPERS FOR ISSUE NO. 6 (SPRING) 2016!

We invite academics, practitioners and policy makers to submit articles for the next JD issue (No. 6/Spring) to be published end of March 2016. Article types may include research papers, working papers, policy recommendations, conference reports, field experiences, interviews, book reviews and program introductions within the topic of radicalization and deradicalization studies of all radical milieus. You may use updated versions of previously published or unpublished work. However, original work will be preferred. The length of the contribution should be between 5.000 (for policy papers, field experiences, program introductions, book reviews) and 20.000 (research papers, working papers, interviews) words. Languages accepted are German and English.

The JD Journal for Deradicalization is the world's only and premier peer reviewed periodical for the theory and practice of deradicalization with a wide international audience. Named an “essential journal of our times” (Cheryl LaGuardia, Harvard University) the JD's editorial board of expert advisors includes some of the most renowned scholars in the field of deradicalization studies, such as Prof. Dr. John G. Horgan (Georgia State University); Prof. Dr. Tore Bjørgo (Norwegian Police University College); Prof. Dr. Mark Dechesne (Leiden University); Prof. Dr. Cynthia Miller-Idriss (American University Washington); Prof. Dr. Marco Lombardi, (Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore Milano); Dr. Paul Jackson (University of Northampton); Professor Michael Freedon, (University of Nottingham); Professor Hamed El-Sa'id (Manchester Metropolitan University); Prof. Sadeq Rahimi (University of Saskatchewan, Harvard Medical School), and Dr Omar Ashour (University of Exeter).

If you are interested in submitting an article please send a short abstract (ca. 250 words) about your topic together with your affiliation to: contact@journal-derad.com until January 29th the latest.

Please indicate the type of article you want to write and the approximate length. You will hear within the first week of February about the acceptance of your proposal. Afterwards we ask you to finish the article until February 29th. Your article will then have to pass through a double blind peer review process and you will hear back until mid-March about necessary changes. Please be aware that there will be no copyediting! You will be responsible for orthography and style.

For reference regarding citation style etc. please see our current issue #5 Winter 2015. Feel free to share this call with your colleagues and anyone who might be interested! We look forward to all submissions! For more information you can follow us on Facebook or Twitter (@JD_JournalDerad).

We are looking forward to all submissions!

JD Editorial Staff